The urban population explosion which has sent shock waves across the United States is having a telling effect on Arkansas.

Noting the heavy rise in urban population in the state in recent years, Glenn G. Zimmerman, executive director of the Arkansas Municipal League, made these observations:

Just 24 years ago there was not a single city in Arkansas with a population over 100,000. And only Fort Smith had a population which stood between 25,000 and 50,000.

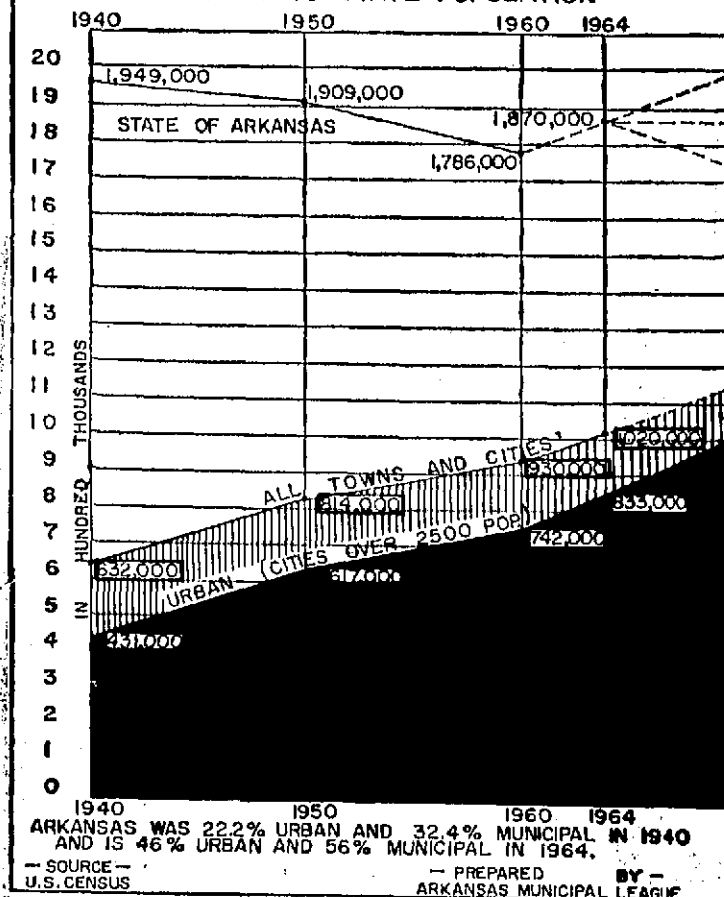

In 1940, only 2 Arkansas cities had over 5,000 population. Today, Little Rock has passed the 100,000 mark, and Fort Smith, North Little Rock and tions has caused a multitude of problems in cities, which must continue to operate under fiscal laws enacted 90 years ago. The problem of providing municipal services for the larger populations has put many cities in a financial bind, the Municipal League director declared.

The U.S. Census Bureau classifies all cities and towns with more than 2,500 population as urban. On that basis, Arkansas' urban population in 1940 was 431,910, or 22 per cent of the state's entire population.

In 1964 Arkansas' urban population stands at 833,750, an increase of 93 per cent in the past 24 years. The 1964 municipal population—the total for all cities and towns in the state is

CHART OF GROWTH OF CITIES AND TOWNS COMPARED TO STATE POPULATION

Line Bluff have populations over 50,000. Three other cities, Hot Springs, Blytheville and El Dorado, have populations of between 25,000 and 50,000.

In 1964, a total of 20 Arkansas cities have populations over 10,000 and 39 cities have passed the 5,000 mark.

Zimmerman said the tremendous rise in urban living since the start of World War II can be traced largely to the availability of job opportunities in the cities. Many who formerly found employment on farms have moved to the cities for higher wages, or because machines displaced them on the farms.

Zimmerman said that the swelling of municipal popula-

1,020,709, or 56 per cent of the state's inhabitants.

The University of Arkansas' Bureau of Business and Economic Research estimated that Arkansas' total population as of July 1, 1963 was 1,870,259. This was a decrease over the 24-year period and less than 1 per cent of the population of the nation, which jumped from 130,000,000 in 1940 to over 192,000,000 in June, 1964.

The United States' population is increasing at the rate of 7,200 each day and most of the increase is in urban areas.

The following table shows the population growth of Arkansas cities. The table was compiled by the Municipal League from official census data.

Convention Factions Banned

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — John M. Bailey, Democratic national chairman, says he will recommend that neither of two competing groups of delegates from Mississippi be placed on the temporary roll of the Democratic National Convention.

The decision, disclosed by Bailey Thursday in an interview, was hailed by Joseph L. Rauh Jr. as a skirmish line victory for a predominantly Negro group of delegates in what could turn into the hottest fight of the convention.

Rauh, a Washington attorney and delegate to the convention, is seeking recognition for the Mississippi Freedom Democratic party, a group which was organized this year with the strong support of most civil rights groups working in Mississippi. Rauh is representing the Freedom Democrats.

It is challenging the right to convention seats for the all-white and pro-segregationist regular Democratic party delegates from Mississippi. The Freedom Democrats say the regulars rebuffed all efforts by Negroes to take part in the selection of convention delegates.

Bailey said he will recommend to the national committee, which meets Aug. 22 in Atlantic City to make up the temporary roll for the convention, that all contested delegations be kept off the roll.

The regular Democrats, headed by State Chairman Bidwell Adam of Gulfport, have largely ignored the insurgent group.

Indonesia Silent on Aid Ban

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — There was no immediate official comment here today on the U.S. Senate's move to prohibit further American aid to Indonesia. Diplomatic observers, however, said that although the Senate's amendment to the foreign aid bill still is subject to House action, it is expected to have sharp reaction here and influence American-Indonesian relations which are not at their best.

The United States has given Indonesia about $700 million in aid since 1950. There has been a slowdown, however, since Indonesia started its campaign to crush neighboring Malaysia.

Guards on Duty in City of Biloxi

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Extensive security measures were imposed today on first grader registration for the first public school desegregation in Mississippi.

The Gulf Coast resort of Biloxi is under federal court orders to desegregate, starting with first grades.

Actual classroom work will not begin until Aug. 31.

Security measures included prohibiting newsmen and photographers from the vicinity of the 10 grade schools during registration hours, prohibiting crowds from gathering and keeping traffic moving near the schools.

Convicted Train Robber Escapes

LONDON (AP) — Was convicted train robber Charles Wilson, 32, kidnaped at gunpoint or whisked away by friends in his spectacular jail break from a maximum-security prison?

Scotland Yard chose the latter theory Friday and reasoned that a newspaper message had tipped off the convict hours before he was removed from his cell at Birmingham's Winslow Prison last Tuesday.

A jailmate said fellow prisoners believe Wilson was abducted by a rival gang that wanted him to reveal the whereabouts of $5 million in loot from last year's great train robbery.

Police said they cannot rule out Marsden's theory, but they are sticking to the view that an advertisement in a love-lorn column of The London Daily Mail organized the jailbreaker's rendezvous.

5 Governors Meet Behind Closed Doors

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Governors of five Southern states huddled behind closed doors here Friday in a surprise session to discuss civil rights and apparently map strategy for the Democratic National Convention.

"We believe that our meeting has been beneficial, and we may have additional meetings in the future," said Louisiana Gov. John F. McKeithen, host for the session and spokesman for himself, Mississippi Gov. Paul B. Johnson, Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Florida's Gov. Farris Bryant, who left the session an hour earlier than the other chief executives, said he had to rush back to Tallahassee, his capital, because of state problems.

In Tallahassee Bryant said: "We met for an exchange of views on mutual problems. A wide range of subjects was discussed, but no plans for concerted action were arrived at. Those Southern governors attending the National Democratic Convention expect to review their conversations there."

The convention opens Aug. 24 at Atlantic City, N.J.

Gov. Johnson says he won't attend the national convention. The other governors are expected to go, although McKeithen has said he hasn't made up his mind about attending.

"They wanted to keep it confidential, and I will respect their wishes," McKeithen told newsmen after the session, called so quickly that Faubus didn't know the site of the meeting when he left Little Rock to fly to New Orleans.

McKeithen said: "Perhaps most of our time was spent discussing civil rights legislation. With this new civil-rights legislation we do have many problems. With schools opening we do face problems we haven't had before."

The Alabama governor, who pulled out of the presidential race, said he would attend the national convention and appear before the Platform Committee. Asked if he would back the Democratic or Republican candidate for president, Wallace replied: "No, we'll just let the people make up their minds for themselves."

All five governors are Democratic executives in states where there is presently strong sentiment for Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, the Republican presidential nominee.

Rebel Forces Step Up Bid To Win Congo

By ROBIN MANNOCK

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP) — Communist-backed rebel forces are stepping up their bid to win control of the turbulent Congo as U.S. planes begin ferrying hard-pressed government troops to troubled spots.

Renewed rebel assaults broke out Friday 700 miles apart in the vast and mineral-rich nation amid new evidence the Chinese Communists are backing the insurgents. U.S. officials discussed the government's plight with Premier Moise Tshombe while in Washington the U.S. role touched off a debate.

Rebel forces advanced to within 12 miles of Bukavu, the capital of central Kivu Province.

In the west, Peking-trained Pierre Mulele's warriors came within 20 miles south of Kikwit in Kwilu Province. His forces total more than 2,000 men, reports said.

The rebel thrusts came as four U.S. C-130 planes took off on their first mission to aid the shaky government army. More than 100 Americans, including 40 paratroopers, arrived Friday.

A military source said one of the four U.S. cargo planes flew to Bukavu, where six rebels were reported killed and several others captured.

Scanty reports from the rebel-held northern city of Stanleyville said rebel leader Gaston Soumialot had reached Kindu, capital of Maniema Province.

The paratroopers are the first foreign soldiers officially in the former Belgian territory since the United Nations withdrew its force last June 30. U.S. Embassy officials said the men had been sent to the Congo only to guard the transport planes and ride U.S. helicopters on rescue and support missions.

G. Mennen Williams, U.S. assistant secretary of state for African affairs, said that the dispatching of American soldiers to the Congo was not an indication of a radical change in U.S. policy. Williams, who arrived Friday, conferred with Tshombe over the worsening revolt.

In Washington the U.S. role was sharply questioned by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., who asked whether the United States was moving toward involvement "in another undeclared war such as that in Viet Nam." Other senators defended the action.

Law Officers Meet In Hope Friday Night

Over 100 law Enforcement officials, members of the Southwest Arkansas Peace Officers Association attended a conference in Hope, Friday night.

Preceded by a fish fry in Fair Park, the officers participated in a seminar type conference in the Hempstead County Circuit Courtroom, sponsored by the Federal Bureau of Investigation dealing with the increasing problems faced by law enforcement officials in apprehending fugitive felons who flee across state lines and the responsibility of the law enforcement community under the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

This conference was one of a series being held throughout Arkansas on these topics to further cooperation and better understanding among law enforcement authorities at the Federal, State and Local level.

As the featured speaker, the occasion marked the initial appearance in southwest Arkansas of Vernon D. Harrington, newly appointed Special Agent in charge of the Little Rock office of the FBI. Mr. Harrington assumed his new post after Service at FBI Headquarters in Washington, D.C. He had earlier served as Assistant Agent in charge of the Denver FBI office.

The program was moderated by Circuit Judge Lyle Brown from Hope. President of the Association Lt. Milton (Scrub) Mosier, Arkansas State Police, and other members participated in the panel discussion.

SHE WAITS IN FAITH

By Dorothy A. Messing

Tsefat (Safed), the largest town in upper Galilee, sits high on Mt. Canaan. It is a place of picturesque heights and interesting crooked lanes. The cobbled streets make walking in American spindly heeled pumps a real undertaking.

There were 11 of us who had driven up from Jerusalem to Tsefat and now we followed our guide down the main street. It was June and the fragrance of flowers and olive groves was everywhere.

Our guide who was a combination of historian and public relations official waited until the women in our party who were spindly heeled shoes caught up with us.

There was an impressive silence for a minute and then he said, "I am sure that each and every one of you looking out on this land, long familiar through The Book, feel there is a story at every turn. There is."

"If you will look back at the entrance to that stone terrace to the right of the street you will see a little woman in gray sitting on the doorstep. She has been sitting there for more years than I can remember. I will tell you more about her after we have visited the most ancient house of worship in this area."

We followed him as he turned to the left and mounted a hill to reach our destination.

"This house of prayer that we are now entering," he continued, "is built on a hill, as you see; just as were all houses of prayer built in ancient times. They were usually on a hill but preferably on a mountain. The altar faces Jerusalem. The woven, rich, red velvet cloth which lies across it is there for a purpose. The scrolls of the law which are taken from the curtain recess behind the altar and read to the congregation, are too precious to lie on the plain wood. In contrast, the tables and benches are bare wood. Not too comfortable. Undoubtedly, they remind the worshippers why they are here."

When we returned to the main street the little woman in gray was sitting on her door step exactly as we had left her.

"What about the gray lady?" inquired a student of history in our group.

"Do you want me to tell her story before I show you the art colony for which Tsefat has become famous? It's just beyond that stone bridge."

"Tell us now," exclaimed a history student, as we all nodded our heads in assent.

"Before I can tell you her story," began our guide thoughtfully, "there is something you must know about this city."

"In the Sixteenth Century, the first printing press in all Asia was installed in Tsefat and here in 1578 the first Hebrew book was printed."

"Here also in the Sixteenth Century came the Cabalists from exile. They brought with them a secret religious philosophy based on a mystical interpretation of the scriptures. It is said, this lady in gray is a direct descendant of one of the most famous Cabalists."

"Does she claim this as a fact?" eagerly asked the history student. "Has anyone heard what she was like when she was young? Was she pretty? Was she gay?"

The guide who seemed to be accustomed to a good many questions was ready with answers. "Nobody knows since she is older than anybody around here. She is 100 years old. She has great, great, great grandchildren who live in the newer part of Tsefat. They want to take her home but she will not leave. She just sits there and waits."

"Will she tell me who she is waiting for if I ask her?" persisted the history student.

"No, it would do no good, because this little, old lady cannot see, hear or talk. The neighbors take care of her between themselves. They say she is waiting for the Messiah and she is afraid if she leaves her own home He will not be able to find her."

An hour later when we returned from visiting the artist colony, the little gray lady was still sitting on her threshold, but this time she was facing inward to her dwelling. She was wrapped a little closer in her gray shawl, her head resting against the stone wall.

Our guide looked back as we passed and said softly, to our entire group, "No matter which

Life in Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Despite severe drought conditions in 1963, Arkansas farmers' nearly equalled the record high production level of 1959.

The Crop Reporting Service said today in its annual bulletin that crop production in the state in 1963 was one per cent above 1962, 16 per cent above the 1957-61 average and only one per cent below the 1959 mark.

A whopping 50 per cent increase in wheat production and a nine per cent larger soybean crop more than offset reductions in other crops, including a nine per cent decrease in the cotton harvest.

Total value of the state's production for all crops in 1963 was $872,947,000, an increase of 4.6 per cent over 1962. In addition, the state's livestock and livestock products production was valued at $318,769,000, up 5.3 per cent over 1962. The latter includes poultry.

Cotton led in production value, at $275,091,000. Soybeans followed at a value of $131,972,000. Broilers ranked third at $117,478,000 and rice was fourth at $90,525,000.

Farmers produced 1,496,000 bales of cotton — 46,000 bales more than were produced in 1962, despite reduced allotments. The 582-pound yield per acre was a record, well above the 1959 mark of 566 pounds.

Rice farmers also did exceptionally well in 1963, harvesting a yield of 4.25 pounds per acre to top the previous record of 3,850 pounds set in 1962. Total production, at 18,105,000 hundredweight, also set a new record — eight per cent above the 1954 record crop of 16,800,000 hundredweight.

The commercial broiler industry turned out 259,850,000 birds, a seven per cent increase over the 1962 production. Gross income from broiler production was $117,478,000, up four per cent from 1962.

Arkansas farmers harvested 2,930,000 acres of soybeans (for beans) in 1963, a new record significantly above the previous high of 2,682,000 acres in 1962. Dry weather hit the crop, however, and production was 11 per cent less than in 1962.

Behind the four major crops, the value of farm production in the state ranked this way: Cattle and calves, $73,367,000; eggs, $58,637,000; dairy products $37,655,000; hay, $17,812,000; hogs, $15,237,000 and turkeys $11,318,000.

Arkansas ranked second in the nation in rice production fourth in cotton and sixth in soybeans.

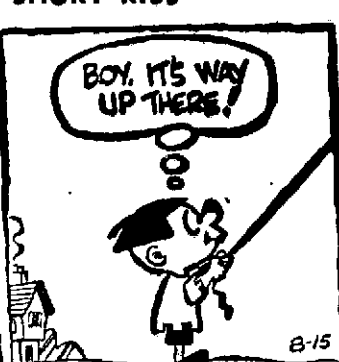

way she is turned, even in the opposite direction as now, she is still facing Jerusalem, in spirit."

NEW YORK (AP)—A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, says his union will endorse President Johnson in the November election. It will be the first time the union has ever formally backed a presidential candidate, said the 75-year-old Randolph, who also is a vice president of the AFL-CIO.

Randolph said in a local television interview that he did not believe the Republican candidate, Sen. Barry Goldwater, would enforce the new civil rights law with the necessary "enthusiasm."

Goldwater has pledged "faithful execution" of the law.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — Winthrop G. Brown, new U.S. ambassador to South Korea, presented his credentials today to President Chung Hee Park at the presidential mansion.

Brown, who succeeds Samuel D. Berger, now deputy superintendent of the National War College, told Park he was privileged to serve "at a time when the prospects are good for continued growth of the Korean economy and enhancement of the standard of living of the people."

NEW YORK (AP)—Alan Jay Lerner, the Broadway lyricist, and his fourth wife, Micheline, are back together again, says the New York Daily News.

Mrs. Lerner, a French lawyer who gave up her practice to marry Lerner in 1957, filed suit in New York last May for separation. She reportedly locked Lerner out of their $500,000 town house on Manhattan's East Side. The News said the Lerner are living together in a cottage at a hotel in Beverly Hills, Calif.

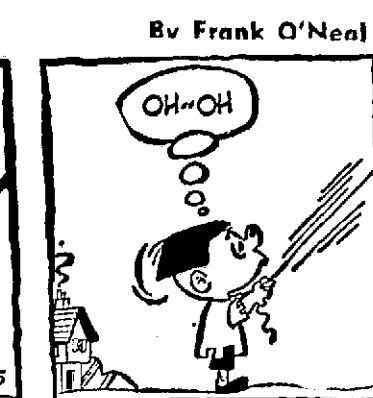

Dumas Girl Wins Turtle Derby Title

GOULD, Ark. (AP)—Carolyn Appaling, a 17-year-old brunette from Dumas, was named Miss Turtle Derby 1964 at the close of the 13th annual Turtle Day Derby here Thursday night.

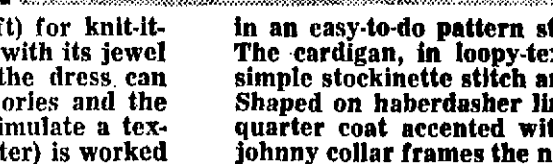

Miss Appaling, who is 5-foot-7, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Appaling.

Princesses named were Suzanne Dunaway, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Dunaway of Conway; Cindy McFalls, 10, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. McFalls of Dumas; and Ann Gaddard, 3, daughter of Mrs. Bonnie Gaddard of Pine Bluff.

Phillip Free of Varner had the winning turtle in the derby. His father, Tom Free Jr., had the winner last year.

Great for travel is this handsome dress (left) for knit-it-yourself fans to make. Knit on simple lines with its jewel neckline and deep-cuffed push-up sleeves, the dress can change its manners according to the accessories and the occasions. It is knit in a pattern stitch to simulate a textured look. Handsome dress and jacket (center) is worked in an easy-to-do pattern stitch for a light and lacy effect. The cardigan, in loopy-textured wool yarn, is knit in a simple stockinette stitch and edged to simulate braid trim. Shaped on haberdasher lines (right) is a handsome three-quarter coat accented with large patch pockets. A trim Johnny collar frames the neck. Sleeves are mid-arm length.

Identical twins Patricia and Leisha Gullison illustrate rights and wrongs in make-up. Patricia (front) enhances her best features and tones down her bad ones. Leisha (rear) used too dark foundation and powder making sharp contrast between face and neck. Her raised, wing-effect eyebrows make the eyes appear puffy and the hooks at the outer edge give a false look. Her final error—too pale lipstick that makes her lips look thick and puffy.

JUST DAYDREAMING—Artist Josy Prayer, captivated by the landscape of the South of France, just leans back and reflects. In so doing, she's creating a charming subject for other artists.

"DEAR ABBY"

FOOD FOR THOUGHT!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: I am almost 15 and I think I know why kids end up in parked cars doing what they shouldn't.

Boys have started coming to my house along with girls, and my Dad is already complaining about the noise, and not having any privacy any more. I have to my house to watch television to my house to watch television or just to talk or to make lemonade and stuff, but this year it's different. Sometimes I think Dad hates to see me grow up.

I'd rather have a boy come to my house than go out on a date with one and I should think my Dad would prefer that, too. But if he keeps grumbling about the TV program we're watching instead of going to watch the other TV, he'll make my friends self-conscious and they won't come back, and I won't want to stay home evenings either.

We live in a small town and except for movies, where can we go that doesn't cost a lot more than kids our age have to spend? Most of my friends have the same trouble with their folks. They say we make too much noise, our dances are silly, our ideas are kooky. They criticize our hair, and clothes and our choice of friends. No wonder kids want cars! They want to get as far away from home as possible.

I really don't want to go off in a car with a boy. I just want a place where my friends can come, and have fun and act like teen-agers without feeling guilty about being one. To my way of thinking, it's better to have room to move around, play games, and make fudge than to run off some place in a car, because if you keep driving, you get to speeding just for fun, and if you park somewhere, you might just go too far if you aren't careful.

I wonder how many kids who end up in trouble had those same thoughts and fears? I wish you would tell parents, Abby, that we kids aren't bad. We just want to get together, and home is our favorite spot, if only we were made to feel welcome.

SPEAKING FOR TEENS

Dear Abby: I am a 16-year-old boy who is very mature for my age and look much older. There is a divorced lady who lives on the corner near me. Every time she sees me she tells me what a nice looking young fellow I am and she asks me when I am coming over to visit her. She says she is lonesome. Should I tell my father?

SONNY
Dear Sonny: No. Tell your mother.

Dear Abby: I am writing in regard to the letter signed "Disappointed in Doctors." The writer claimed her mother was ill and was ordered to bed by her doctor. When the mother worsened, the daughter phoned the doctor, who said, "There is nothing I can do. What do you expect from a 73-year-old woman?" He refused to make a house call and the mother died the next day.

This is hard to believe. What probably happened was this: When the doctor first saw the patient he advised the daughter to put her in a hospital for a thorough examination, and tests. The daughter refused and attempted to care for her mother at home. When the mother grew worse, the daughter called the doctor and he probably said, "Since you did not let me give her a thorough examination, what do you expect from a 73-year-old woman who has not been properly cared for?"

Abby, the image of rich, country-club, golf-playing doctors is a myth. Doctors as a group are dedicated. What other professionals are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week? Tell "Disappointed" to look to her own conscience regarding her mother. Blaming the doctor will not absolve her guilt for neglecting her mother.

Diving Aid

Although breathing appliances for divers were used as early as the 4th century B.C., the first practical diving aid (a watertight case holding about 60 cubic feet of air and allowing the diver freedom of movement) was invented in England during the early 18th century.

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One new television series will start its season well after the rest of the pack. "Profiles in Courage" will not debut until Nov. 8, because that's the way the late President John F. Kennedy wanted it.

After Kennedy's election to the presidency, many producers sought his best-selling book about moral courage in American politics as basis for a series. But not until Robert Saudek made an inquiry did Kennedy begin serious consideration. He had made two appearances as a senator on Saudek's "Omnibus."

Kennedy established stringent terms for the series — approval of script, final film, casting, director, even the press releases. And to avoid any political repercussions, the series was not to go on the air until after the 1964 elections.

Saudek and NBC have continued to follow Kennedy's instructions since his death. All details of the hour films are cleared with the estate. The scripts are reviewed by former Kennedy aide Theodore C. Sorenson, who will receive screen credit.

"Bob Kennedy has seen two of the finished films," reports Michael Ritchie, associate to producer Gordon Oliver. "Ted Kennedy has seen four or five of them, and both are ecstatic over the results."

Tall, bespectacled Ritchie, who looks like a Harvard history student — which he was four years ago — said the scripts will necessarily go beyond the 18 courageous figures featured in the book.

"Fortunately, Sorenson was able to provide a list of other people Kennedy had considered for inclusion in the book," said Ritchie. "We also found a magazine story which the president had written about women of courage in American history."

The series will occupy the Sunday evening hour following "Meet the Press." Come high or low ratings, "Profiles in Courage" is guaranteed a full 26-week season without options. That was a Kennedy stipulation, too.

Monasteries of Greece on Hilltops
By PHILIP DOPOULOS
THESSALY, Greece (AP)
The monasteries of Greece are built on mountaintops, reaching to heaven to be closer to God.
Behind the small Thessaly town of Kalambaka, rising from a black rock mountain, stand the monasteries of Meteora, the name meaning "in the air." The dark mountain contrasts sharply with the red earth of the fertile valley below.
Meteora is a powerful picture of nature. Taking a long look, it is not hard to believe the legend that only by a rope tied to the foot of an eagle nesting on one of the peaks was the first ascent made possible.
Years ago, the monks hauled each other up and down the sheer rock in nets worked by a windlass from above. One intrepid visitor is said to have asked a monk how often the rope was changed, "only when the old rope breaks" was the reply. Today, a road runs part way up to the major monastery and steps cut out of the solid rock take a visitor to the others.
During the wars between the Serbian emperors of Trikkala and Byzantium in the 14th century, the first peace seeking hermits came to Meteora seeking refuge. The hermits also have been described as draft dodgers, seeking to escape military service.
With time, the hermits grew into monasteries and new incentive was added with the coming of Athanasius the Cenobite, who founded the Monastery of the Transfiguration in the second half of the 14th century.
He introduced more rigorous rules, one of which barred women.
The great Meteora reached its zenith when John Cantacuzene, expelled from the throne by Byzantium, entered it as a disciple of Athanasius. Having become the largest, richest monastery, the hermits no longer wished to recognize authority and tried to impose its own eminence. This led to a bitter struggle in the 16th century followed by a rapid decline so that only 4 of the 24 monasteries today are inhabited.
An old monk, one of the few remaining, takes visitors around the 16th century Church of the Transfiguration, which contains rare frescoes.
On the nearby peak of Ipsilotera is the deserted Monastery of Manuscripts, whose inhabitants once produced beautifully illuminated lives of the saints. On the bare rock, set at an almost impossible height, a fresco of the virgin and child is still discernible.
The tragedy of Meteora is that most of the rare icons, books and frescoes have been stolen or are beyond repair from decay.

"Never Man Spake

...like this Man." John 7:46. Jobe suffered tribulation but he never lost faith. He asked a great question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" The Bible is full of proof in the affirmative. Death must give way to life. In deepest reality there is no death, only transition... the changing from one form of life to another. Spring is the time when Christ arose. Spring is the earth beginning again. It is the time of challenge to women and men to step up their church attendance and support record. It is the time when God called the sun to send her warm rays to awaken the dead earth, to summon new beauty to come forth and cover her brow. It is certainly the time when man puts on new graces of the spirit... love, joy, peace, patience, faith and self-control. Here we hear Him as He welcomes all to a new life in Him... to a new resurrection.

THE CHURCHES OF THIS COMMUNITY ARE THE ONLY INSTITUTIONS WHICH HAVE AS THEIR MAIN FUNCTION, THE TRANSFORMING OF HUMAN LIVES. THEY ARE THE SIGN BOARDS POINTING THE WAY TO GOD.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through these pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted... to combat Communism on all fronts... to be faithful to God.

OUR PASTORS ARE GOD'S SERVANTS WHO CALL THE SIGNALS AGAINST THE ORGANIZED FORCES OF EVIL. THEY INVITE YOU TO ENLIST ON THE SIDE FOR GOD...

The Ninety and Nine Were Safe; -- But One!?
